REPARATIONS BODY SO FINDS TEUTONS DELINQUENT IN 1922

SIR JOHN BRADBURY, BRITISH DELEGATE, VOTED AGAINST THE FINDINGS

THIS IS TECHNICAL ACTION WHICH WAS TO PRECEDE FRENCH INVASION

(By United Press)
Paris, Jan. 9.—The reparations commission by a vote of three to one today found Germany voluntarily in default of coal payments to France during 1922.

Sir John Bradbury, British representative voted against the findings.

This is the necessary technical action which was to precede French invasion of the Ruhr valley and occupation of Essen. Marshal Foch's military plans waited upon action by the allies finding Germany in default.

France, backed by Belgium and Italy, made speedy finish of the reparations commission's sitting today. Ten German experts had succeeded in delaying matters yesterday, by haranguing all the afternoon, but today they were called speedily to account and the vote France asked of the commission was taken.

By the vote Germany is found to have willfully defaulted in amounts of coal that should have been delivered to France during the past year. The Germans claimed they delivered so much they were forced to import other coal themselves.

The French clapped immediate censorship applying to foreign as well as local newspaper correspondents upon forecasts of what France will do, but the press agrees that invasion is practically at hand. It is expected that the French will not wait until Thursday when Premier Poincare addresses the Chamber of Deputies before acting. He may present occupation of Essen as an accomplished fact.

Berlin, Jan. 9.—Advance guard of French troops under General DeGoutte has arrived at Kettwig, near Essen, according to a dispatch from the latter city.

Citizens of Essen were surprised that the French did not enter during the night. Railroads and hotels were ready to receive them.

European Situation Resembles 1914 Crisis

Washington, Jan. 9.—With the European situation described in diplomatic quarters as similar to the crisis in 1914 that developed the world war, the United States government today considered recalling of the American troops of occupation from the Rhine.

President Harding and his cabinet are scheduled to meet at the White House today and it is highly probable that the French move into the Ruhr and the advisability of bringing home American troops are recently requested by a senate resolution, will be the foremost subject to be discussed.

Whether orders are issued within the next few days for withdrawal of the American forces in Germany, the government has made clear that under no circumstances will they become involved in any trouble resulting from the French seizure of the German principal industrial region.

Chancellor Cuno in Statement

Berlin, Jan. 9.—France's proposed seizure of Essen would constitute a "breach of treaty" as an act of force against a defenseless people, declared Chancellor Cuno today in an interview with the American correspondent.

He contended France's course was wrong and simultaneously renewed Germany's offer of a peace pact.

The chancellor emphasized Germany's calm view of France's movements, adding "we shall not forever bow to force, and we cannot forever yield to threats and thus go into the abyss. The allies in Paris did not desire to hear our proposals and they did not agree to their own. The solution has again been postponed. Certain French circles apparently really believe that reparations can be obtained through force."

W. H. STRACHAN, SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LAKE SUPERIOR DIVISION PRAISES SHOPS

In an interview with the Brainerd Dispatch today, W. H. Strachan, of Duluth, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific railway, praised the quality and amount of work turned out by the railway shops in Brainerd.

Without any reservations whatever he praised the spirit and workmanship shown.

Figures made public at the superintendent's office today showed a total of 921 men at work.

On the locomotive side there were employed 323 new men and 260 old men. On the car side there were employed 191 new men and 147 old men. Ten old men were put to work this morning.

Business conditions in Northern Pacific railway territory are improving and a prosperous season is looked forward to.

In referring to the campaign for the St. Lawrence tidewater project, Mr. Strachan admitted its importance to this section. Railway men have expressed the opinion that bringing ocean ships to the front door of Duluth will result in a tremendous tonnage of whole trainloads being loaded at the docks and shipped westward over the Lake Superior division, resulting in putting Brainerd's division on a par with the best tonnage figures now produced on the main line.

Mr. Strachan conferred with Joseph Smith, roadmaster, and others, regarding division matters.

Representative J. B. Pattison, also of St. Cloud, was to introduce the measure in the house today.

Because of numerous murders and attempted murders recently, legislators are believed to look more favorably upon a return of capital punishment than before. Similar measures have been defeated in every session of the legislature since 1921 when capital punishment was abolished.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN APPEARS AS NATION'S PERENNIAL CANDIDATE

(By United Press)
Chicago, Jan. 9.—William Jennings Bryan, three times candidate for president, served notice today that he was still in the political running.

The commoner in an exclusive interview denied he had given up politics for preaching. He predicted a democrat would capture the White House in 1924 and indicated that he was once again prepared to lead the voice of "progressive democracy."

"I was never more interested in politics than I am today," declared Bryan, who is lecturing on religious topics throughout the country. "It is not true as has been reported that my discussions of evolution and Darwinism have led me to withdraw my interest from governmental matters," he said.

"I expect to continue to contribute to the advancement of progressive democracy."

Although he came here to lecture on "Moses against Darwinism" and thousands of his followers were turned away from the tabernacle where he spoke, Bryan made it clear off stage that the coming presidential campaign would absorb a major portion of his interest in 1924.

Prohibition will not be the chief issue in the next campaign he declared. "The country is getting dryer every day through more efficient enforcements," he said, "and as a political issue is playing out."

Darwinism just now is the "acute question," Bryan added as he made clear he would continue to discuss religious questions in connection with his political activities.

DAUGHERTY EXONERATED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

(By United Press)
Washington, Jan. 9.—The House Judiciary committee today adopted a report exonerating Attorney General Daugherty from the impeachment charge filed by Representative Keller of Minnesota.

BURSUM PENSION BILL UP AGAIN

(By United Press)
Washington, Jan. 9.—The Bursum pension bill minus several of the provisions which President Harding objected to in his recent veto was reintroduced in the house today by Representative Fuller, republican, of Illinois, chairman of the house pensions committee.

The new bill simply increases pensions to veterans and widows already on the pension rolls of the government.

PEACE CONVENTION IN IRELAND PLANNED

Dublin, Jan. 9.—A nationwide convention to effect peace in Ireland has been decided upon by the Sinn Fein high council.

MUST GIVE SERVICE.

The man who fails to render to society the service of which he is capable has no claim on it. Indeed, he forfeits all consideration from society and, for what he receives from it, becomes in the full meaning of the term a "subject for charity."

Non-Partisans Against Butler

St. Paul, Jan. 9.—The Non-partisan league and labor members of the legislature today started a move to revive the Pierce Butler investigation made in the senate at Washington when the St. Paul attorney was appointed supreme court justice by President Harding.

Leaguers are now at work on a resolution which will ask the Minnesota legislature to protest confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Butler.

The League members will also attempt to have the state senators refuse to confirm the reappointments of Mr. Butler as regent of the University of Minnesota by Governor Preus. They also plan a fight on confirmation of other members of the Board of Regents.

IOWA PASTOR WEARS OVERALLS IN PULPIT

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Jan. 9.—Rev. Hugh Orchard, pastor of the Second Christian church, long has believed that the reason his church was not filled on Sunday night was because some of the working men did not possess clothes they believed good enough to be seen in a fashionable congregation.

Last week Rev. Orchard advertised he would don overalls for his services and invited members of his congregation to come dressed as they pleased. The church was packed, and it contained many labor folk who were dressed in every day clothes.

Rev. Orchard pronounced the experiment a success.

SOME LONG TIME PAYMENTS NEEDED

NONE OF NATIONS CAN FUND THEIR OBLIGATIONS WITHIN THE LIMITATIONS

(By United Press)
Washington, Jan. 9.—None of the nations owing the United States the eleven billion dollars war debt can fund their obligations within the limitations imposed by congress, it was officially announced at the White House today.

The White House confirmed United Press dispatches that the American Debt commission would obtain the best possible terms of the funding of the British debt through negotiations now under way, and then make a report to the President, who in turn, would submit it to congress with a recommendation for modification of the law to enable this government to accept it.

WOMAN AND LOVER HANGED IN LONDON FOR MURDER TODAY

MRS. PERCY THOMPSON MEETS END IN HOLLOWAY JAIL AT 9 O'CLOCK

AT SAME HOUR HER LOVER, FOUND JOINTLY GUILTY, IS HANGED

London, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Percy Thompson was hanged at 9 o'clock this morning at the Holloway jail for the murder of her husband October 4th. At the same hour in Pentonville prison Frederick Edward Bywaters, her lover, found jointly guilty of the crime, was hanged.

Hundreds gathered in chilling rain outside the prisons awaiting the single solemn clang of the death bell that announced the execution.

One woman bore a placard: "Murder cannot be abolished by murder."

Mrs. Thompson, who made vain appeals for clemency to the last, was the first woman executed in England in fifteen years.

Only officials were permitted to witness the hangings. High board fences had been erected about the scaffolds at the north of the London jail and the public saw nothing of the executed nor of the prisoners as they were taken from their cells.

Official notices of the executions were posted on the gates; that of Pentonville saying that Bywaters had been executed, was put up at 9:25 a. m. and Mrs. Thompson's at 9:33.

Curious crowds outside drifted away without demonstration. Mrs. Thompson and Bywaters were found guilty after one of the most dramatic murder trials in England's history, of conspiring against the former's husband and effecting his death by stabbing on October 4th.

Bywaters admitted the stabbing claiming self defense. The couple said they planned to elope together later and love letters passed between them were produced in which they discussed ways and means of poisoning Percy Thompson.

The prosecution held, and the jury found that Mrs. Thompson incited Bywaters to stab her husband, but both the youth and the woman protested violently that this was not so. A petition signed by more than a million people, mostly women, was presented to the Home Secretary asking reprieve for Bywaters.

Mrs. Thompson also made appeals, but with few signatures. Most of the public sympathy was with the youth, a ship steward who had become infatuated with the woman.

Bywaters walked bravely to the scaffold. He had born up bravely throughout the trial and the various ordeals preceding his execution, only constantly urging that Mrs. Thompson be spared. He slept most of the night, ate a light breakfast, smoked a cigarette, sent a message to the governor of the Pentonville prison thanking him for the treatment he had received while there, and then walked steadily to his doom.

Ellis, the official executor took but a couple of minutes. Bywaters stood arms pinioned on a trap door. A wool cap was pulled over his head. Immediately the rope had been adjusted and death was certified to have been instantaneous.

Mrs. Thompson passed a fair night, but was in a state of complete collapse at 7:30 this morning. She was practically unconscious for the two hours that preceded the execution and was carried to the scaffold with a doctor in constant attendance.

BLACK MASKS ARE IDENTIFIED

FORMER OFFICIAL OF KU KLUX SAYS THEY WERE "TERROR MASKS OF THE KLAN"

(By United Press)

Bastrop, La., Jan. 9.—The black masks worn by the hooded men who kidnaped and murdered Wat Daniels and Thomas Richards were identified at the investigation today by James T. Norsworthy, former official of the Ku Klux Klan as "the terror masks of the Klan."

Norsworthy declared the black hood was part of the regalia of the Klan. He said the white hood was worn in meetings and ceremonials but that when the Klan was on the "warpath" they wore the black hood.

A reign of terror has resulted from the operations of the Klan, Norsworthy announced.

Norsworthy, former captain of the Klan at Mer Rouge identified also the "vigilance committee of Morehouse parish" as part of the Klan.

The vigilance committee has been blamed by him for kidnappings and violence.

Bastrop, La., Jan. 9.—Morehouse parish was alive with disquieting rumors and reports as the open hearing into the murder of Watt Daniels and Thomas F. Richards of Mer Rouge was resumed.

Guards were placed about the home of Miss Addie May Maitton, 12, who was kidnaped by a hooded mob and sent out of the state last summer. Department of justice agents during the night received an anonymous telephone message that the girl was to be kidnaped during the night.

Five men in automobiles called at the girl's home, but were frightened away by the civilian guard. Some authorities labeled the gesture as a hoax.

The girl in an interview said she had recognized Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge, charged with being an accessory to the Danles-Richards murder, as one of the mob which kidnaped her.

MILLIONAIRE FOUND; AMNESIA SUFFERER

(By United Press)

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Hugo Schlesinger, Milwaukee millionaire, missing since he checked out of the LaSalle hotel here Friday, was found today in an outlying district of the city. He had apparently been suffering from face, and his clothing was muddy, amnesia. He had a slight cut on his head and had apparently fallen in the wanderings.

Schlesinger was wandering on 63rd and Cicero avenue when found. This is miles from the heart of the city, toward the southeast side of Chicago.

Anderson Mentioned As House Floor Leader

Washington, Jan. 9.—The position of the Minnesota house members on the reorganization of the house in the next congress will be determined at a meeting to be conducted here.

A slate already has been made up that contemplates re-election of Speaker F. H. Gillett of Massachusetts and election of Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio as floor leader. There are reports that combinations have been formed and that the Gillett and Longworth forces expect to put these two members over.

Progressive members of the house generally are opposed to Longworth as floor leader. They regard him as a conservative, although his friends declare he is as good a progressive as there is in the house. The combination has a bearing on the positions Minnesota members will have in the house organization.

Representative Sydney Anderson of the first district has been talked about most as the successor of Representative Frank Mondell, present floor leader, who retires March 4. The Minnesota man also has quite a backing for the speakership. Members of the Minnesota delegation have come to no decision.

Representative Harold Knutson of the sixth district is said to be ready to retire from the office of whip, which he has held for two terms, provided Mr. Anderson becomes a candidate for speaker or floor leader. Two Minnesotans could not be members of the house organization, and besides, Mr. Knutson has not always been in sympathy with several measures backed by the house organization, and would welcome an opportunity to give way to another member from his state.

MORE FUNDS SOUGHT TO ADVERTISE STATE

Increased appropriations for the advertising of Minnesota as a summer resort state will be asked for by the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota association, it was announced yesterday. For the last two years the state has set aside $20,000 a year to be spent by the Land and Lakes Attractions board. The association will ask this time for $50,000 a year, according to R. R. Wise of Brainerd, president. Activities of the association have trebled as a result of the increased inquiries from incoming and prospective tourists, he said.

Complains Air Has Been Stolen.

—The air is free, however much the rest of our environment may be in the possession of other folk, is a comforting thought that may now be denied to us. At any rate, an American citizen has become so depressed in his mind that he has entered court and declared that even the atmosphere and all of its contents and component parts have passed into the hands of conspirators who violate the Sherman act by hogging up all of the 25,000 etherwave lengths available to his broadcasting station.—The Nation's business.

CUTTING TO BE SUPERVISED

Government Experts to Overlook Vast Logging Operations in the Sierra Mountains.

One hundred and sixty-seven million feet of timber were recently sold on the Plumas National forest, California, according to an announcement made by the United States forest service. The timber covers about 14,000 acres in what is known as the sugar pine-yellow pine belt in the heart of the Sierra mountains of California.

It is estimated that this amount of timber, together with the inter-mixed privately owned timber, will require eight years to cut and convert into lumber. Twenty-one miles of railroad will be built to connect with an existing logging railroad 40 miles in length. As usual in this type of forest, says the announcement, the logging will be done by donkey engines, but forest service men will carefully supervise the cutting so that all young and thrifty trees will be left for future growth. Only marked trees will be cut and brush and debris resulting from logging will be piled and burned.

FARM BUREAU IN MARKETS REFORM

Notable Ovation Follows Reed's Unanimous Re-election—Anderson Again Treasurer

OLSON, NEW VICE PRESIDENT

J. D. Pyle and Mrs. Ripley Returned—Cooperation Key in 1933 Program

J. F. Reed, a Lac qui Parle farmer, whom Minnesota producers "yanked from a corn cultivator" a year ago to be president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, was unanimously re-elected at the fourth annual meeting of the association, held last week at St. Paul.

Mr. Reed, as president, and members of his executive board have before them the task of carrying out what is characterized as the most forward-looking program for agriculture ever adopted by a farm organization in Minnesota. Among the prominent planks in the Federation's 1933 platform are:

Development of the co-operative marketing idea as rapidly as possible, a step that has become increasingly necessary because existing marketing agencies have "wholly failed during the existing emergency to perform this work."

Immediate relief for agriculture through temporary government aid in price stabilization.

Government aid in disposing of the exportable crop surpluses, a demand that is justified because of the policy of protection now afforded to practically every other industry. The program demands such legislation as will stabilize prices on agricultural products and place them on a par as a basis for exchange of products bought by farmers.

There was but one contest for elective position. A. J. Olson of Renville was named vice president to succeed F. E. Lammers of Lakeville over Charles Jackman of Jackson. Three ballots were necessary to obtain a majority. Mr. Lammers' candidacy having been favored in the first two, which resulted in a majority for no one.

Mr. Reed's re-election was followed by an ovation that lasted three minutes. "My heart," he said, "is in the Farm Bureau work and one of my life's great rewards is the opportunity to serve. But I shall expect your counsel and cooperation in the future, just as I have had it in the past."

In presenting the 1933 president to the convention, T. E. Cashman of Owatonna told the delegates that Mr. Reed has been prominently mentioned as possible successor to J. H. Howard as president of the American Farm Bureau Federation at the recent annual meeting and had been honored by a place on the national board of directors. "We certainly are happy," he said, "to have so wonderful a farmer as president."

Discussions of the problems uppermost in the minds of farmers continued for three days. None but accredited delegates from actively co-operating counties were allowed to vote, either for officers or on questions of policy. Time and again, decisions were reached only after extended debate, during which marked differences of opinion were expressed.

Submission by the agricultural program committee of a paragraph opposing "both the principle and practice of ship subsidy in every form and fashion" brought on a spirited debate, at the end of which the paragraph was adopted by a vote of nearly 3 to 1.

The Farm Bureau's 1933 program for a continuance of retrenchment on the part of farmers until there is a reasonable price adjustment, opposition to increased production until the consumptive demand makes profitable production possible, a retrenchment of the production policy of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, greater stress on co-operative marketing, indorsement of collective buying for productive purposes and grades that will not penalize wheat on technicalities that do not lower its milling value.

The state legislature was called upon, in the program, to enact a rural credits law that will give the farmer full benefit of amortization in repayment and lower rates of interest. The resolutions recommend to the legislature that the maximum amount to be loaned, under the proposed system, shall not exceed 65 per cent of the appraisal value of the land and 40 per cent of the actual value of the improvements, which shall not exceed 50 per cent of the value of the land nor be considered worth more than $8,000.

Comprehensive recommendations for remedying the farmers' finance problems were adopted.

Lower freight rates were demanded, as was the repeal of the act establishing the railway labor board. Amendment of the Esch-Cummins act, removing the principle of guarantees on fixed valuations, was urged. Addition railroad equipment to move crops was asked.

The St. Lawrence Waterway project was indorsed, as was legislation to protect water power resources from greedy private interests. Congress was urged to accept Ford's offer to operate Muscle Shoals nitrate project.

Better highways were asked and while there was no opposition to bonus proposals was expressed, it was stipulated that such action should be taken only in ways that will not increase taxes. Farm to market roads were demanded, as was a limitation of tonnage on rural highways.

A "pay as you go" policy in carrying on public improvements was advocated, as was a reduction in tariff rates to a level that will adjust the difference between cost of production here and abroad, a 3-mill tax rate in addition to the present 1-mill tax for school support was demanded.

Passage of the truth-in-fabrics and filled milk laws was urged. A general sales tax was denounced, as was the repeal of the excess profits tax. Branch banking was opposed. On the program were Gray Silver, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, J. W. Coverdale, national secretary and Mrs. Charles Schuttler, director woman's work in the national organization. In his address of welcome, W. C. Coffey, dean of the Minnesota College of Agriculture, said that his institution must pay more attention to the development of co-operative marketing.

President Reed's annual address pointed out that marketing and distribution were the subjects of greater concern to farmers at present and it was around that idea that the annual program was built.

Managers of co-operative marketing agencies now under way in the state reported on their work before the convention.

FARM BUREAU IN MARKETS REFORM

Notable Ovation Follows Reed's Unanimous Re-election—Anderson Again Treasurer

OLSON, NEW VICE PRESIDENT

J. D. Pyle and Mrs. Ripley Returned—Cooperation Key in 1933 Program

J. F. Reed, a Lac qui Parle farmer, whom Minnesota producers "yanked from a corn cultivator" a year ago to be president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, was unanimously re-elected at the fourth annual meeting of the association, held last week at St. Paul.

Mr. Reed, as president, and members of his executive board have before them the task of carrying out what is characterized as the most forward-looking program for agriculture ever adopted by a farm organization in Minnesota. Among the prominent planks in the Federation's 1933 platform are:

Development of the co-operative marketing idea as rapidly as possible, a step that has become increasingly necessary because existing marketing agencies have "wholly failed during the existing emergency to perform this work."

Immediate relief for agriculture through temporary government aid in price stabilization.

Government aid in disposing of the exportable crop surpluses, a demand that is justified because of the policy of protection now afforded to practically every other industry. The program demands such legislation as will stabilize prices on agricultural products and place them on a par as a basis for exchange of products bought by farmers.

There was but one contest for elective position. A. J. Olson of Renville was named vice president to succeed F. E. Lammers of Lakeville over Charles Jackman of Jackson. Three ballots were necessary to obtain a majority. Mr. Lammers' candidacy having been favored in the first two, which resulted in a majority for no one.

Mr. Reed's re-election was followed by an ovation that lasted three minutes. "My heart," he said, "is in the Farm Bureau work and one of my life's great rewards is the opportunity to serve. But I shall expect your counsel and cooperation in the future, just as I have had it in the past."

In presenting the 1933 president to the convention, T. E. Cashman of Owatonna told the delegates that Mr. Reed has been prominently mentioned as possible successor to J. H. Howard as president of the American Farm Bureau Federation at the recent annual meeting and had been honored by a place on the national board of directors. "We certainly are happy," he said, "to have so wonderful a farmer as president."

Discussions of the problems uppermost in the minds of farmers continued for three days. None but accredited delegates from actively co-operating counties were allowed to vote, either for officers or on questions of policy. Time and again, decisions were reached only after extended debate, during which marked differences of opinion were expressed.

Submission by the agricultural program committee of a paragraph opposing "both the principle and practice of ship subsidy in every form and fashion" brought on a spirited debate, at the end of which the paragraph was adopted by a vote of nearly 3 to 1.

The Farm Bureau's 1933 program for a continuance of retrenchment on the part of farmers until there is a reasonable price adjustment, opposition to increased production until the consumptive demand makes profitable production possible, a retrenchment of the production policy of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the state College of Agriculture, greater stress on co-operative marketing, indorsement of collective buying for productive purposes and grades that will not penalize wheat on technicalities that do not lower its milling value.

The state legislature was called upon, in the program, to enact a rural credits law that will give the farmer full benefit of amortization in repayment and lower rates of interest. The resolutions recommend to the legislature that the maximum amount to be loaned, under the proposed system, shall not exceed 65 per cent of the appraisal value of the land and 40 per cent of the actual value of the improvements, which shall not exceed 50 per cent of the value of the land nor be considered worth more than $8,000.

Comprehensive recommendations for remedying the farmers' finance problems were adopted.

Lower freight rates were demanded, as was the repeal of the act establishing the railway labor board. Amendment of the Esch-Cummins act, removing the principle of guarantees on fixed valuations, was urged. Addition railroad equipment to move crops was asked.

The St. Lawrence Waterway project was indorsed, as was legislation to protect water power resources from greedy private interests. Congress was urged to accept Ford's offer to operate Muscle Shoals nitrate project.

Better highways were asked and while there was no opposition to bonus proposals was expressed, it was stipulated that such action should be taken only in ways that will not increase taxes. Farm to market roads were demanded, as was a limitation of tonnage on rural highways.

A "pay as you go" policy in carrying on public improvements was advocated, as was a reduction in tariff rates to a level that will adjust the difference between cost of production here and abroad, a 3-mill tax rate in addition to the present 1-mill tax for school support was demanded.

DON'T BLOCK PROSPERITY

MINNESOTA'S progress is threatened. Opposition to the Babcock good roads program has arisen because of the belief that it will increase taxes.

The proposal to issue $20,000,000 for paving projects does not mean that taxes would be increased one penny. The plan is to issue the bonds and carry out immediately the paving work that ordinarily would be done in 10 or 20 years.

The cost would be taken up during the period of 10 or 20 years. In other words, Minnesota would get the good roads at once, but pay for them later.

Payment of the bonds would not be by general taxation. Principal and interest would be met out of the automobile taxes collected by the state.

Nor does the plan contemplate increasing the cost of automobile licenses. It doesn't contemplate placing a single additional burden on the public. As we see it, everything is to be gained, nothing lost.

Good roads are a necessity. They must be built if the farmer is to prosper. They are equally important to the city.

Many of our graveled trunk highways today carry so much traffic that it would be cheaper to hard surface them than to pay the present upkeep.

Mr. Babcock proposes an issue of bonds amounting to $10,000,000 in 1923 and a similar amount in 1924 to be used in construction of permanent hard surfaced highways. It is proposed to set aside a certain amount out of the fees collected from motor vehicle taxes to promote a sinking fund and to pay the interest on these bonds. The balance, which represents the greater amount of the motor vehicle tax would be used as before for maintenance of unpaved highways.

Authorization of the bond issue would mean the saving to motor vehicle users of thousands of dollars by decreasing upkeep expense on their cars.

But more important, it would mean the growth and prosperity of the state of Minnesota. It would mean keeping pace with our sister states. It would mean rendering the greatest aid possible to the farmer by providing adequate highways over which he can transport his products to the market—and this with no increase in taxes to him.

Paving work can now be done at pre-war prices. Contractors are available now under the most favorable economic conditions. This is not the time to be penny wise and pound foolish.

The Daily News has never been accused of urging unwise expenditure of public funds or of sponsoring extravagance. We sincerely believe that the Babcock good roads program will lead to a period of prosperity for farmer and city dweller alike.

This paper believes that any attempt to obstruct the program will be due to a misunderstanding of Mr. Babcock's plan.

Every citizen should familiarize himself with the details—The Daily News will be glad to get them for you if you will write us.

Don't let a misconception or misunderstanding block the way to Minnesota's greatest period of prosperity.—St. Paul Daily News.

THE ENGLISH THAT IS ENGLISH

WITH the growth of the English language, in two directions, it is becoming necessary to attempt to conserve the best that is in it. The first growth is in vocabulary and the second is geographical; and the second of these has a marked influence on the first. The result of this growth is seen in the vast addition to the language of words that are provincial, or the non-enduring slang words of any particular age.

A movement, headed by Fred Newton Scott, of the University of Michigan, has as its object the purifying of the English language and keeping it pure. It should have the assistance of those who, seeing the day when the English language will be universal, hope to make it a common medium of expression by which all men may understand the thoughts that others are seeking to express.

One of the reasons why an Englishman cannot understand the point of an American joke, or an American the humor of an English story, lies in the fact that both contain words that are appreciated by the one telling the story but are not understood by the one hearing it. Very many English words have an entirely different meaning in the United States from that which they carry in England.

There is yet another serious encroachment upon pure English, which is found in the increasing numbers of words which are nothing other than provincialisms. These may be heard in every section of England and in different part of the United States. As these become assimilated into the language, they tend to destroy a language which ought to be the medium for carrying across thoughts from the speaker to the listener. But thoughts cannot be conveyed by a language, even though it be called by the common name English, whose terms are not understood by those living outside of the boundaries in which the provincialisms have been made a part of the language. Some of these may well be kept because of their value in expressing thought, but to serve any considerable purpose they must be explained to those who do not know their meaning.

The language in which an American writer describes a baseball game carries no meaning to one who has not been taught the meaning of the words used, and what is true of these terms is true of many words that have been called into use in various parts of the world where the English language is spoken.

The object of such forward-looking men is to secure one language, not in name only but in fact, and it is highly commendable.

SENATOR NELSON SHOWS HIS HAND

THE senior senator from Minnesota is given to expressing himself in vigorous language and he lived up to his reputation in his recent speech on the motion to withdraw American troops from the Rhine.

Characterizing the politics of those who made the demand as "peanut politics," Senator Nelson told the senate a few things in a very straight-forward way. Perhaps the most startling announcement made in the speech was the one in which he affirmed that he has always favored America's entry into the League of Nations, with certain reservations. This is interesting to the people back home for more than one good republican in this state has been abused because he has dared to champion just such a position as that taken by the senior senator from Minnesota.

It is unfortunate that partisan politics should enter into questions of such moment as those of our relations to Europe. Such problems cannot be successfully faced in the arena of politics but must be dispassionately and thoroughly considered by the department of state which has before it the necessary data upon which to form an opinion leading to a decision. If, as Senator Nelson affirms, much of the present trouble in Europe is the result of our refusal to accept the peace treaty of Versailles, and to enter the League of Nations, after demanding such necessary reservations as seemed wise, then Europe's troubled condition is the result of American politics, for the League of Nations was made a political issue.

If this is true, and no one is much better qualified to announce its truth than Senator Nelson, it will be most unfortunate if politics, entering once more into our relations to Europe, prevents the administration from doing what the exigencies of the situation demand.

When there is such confusion in congress over the ship subsidy bill there is little reason to expect that congressmen will be able to deal with the larger affairs of America's foreign relations with less confusion. Politics and business do not mix any too well and politics and wisdom are seldom wedded. One of the weaknesses of democratic government lies in the desire of lawmakers to express a snap judgment on questions that they cannot decide intelligently, being without the necessary training and data.

SADDLE-HORSES AND AUTOMOBILES

WE have gone beyond the day of the saddle-horse and the day of the automobile has arrived. When the saddle-horse was used for traveling, the one in the saddle controlled the horse and, being alone in the saddle, had no one else to think about but himself. With the automobile it is different. These vehicles seat more than one and the courteous, thoughtful driver, considers not only his own desires but the wishes of those who may be with him in the car.

What has already been said illustrates the attitudes that may be taken to community affairs. Such as think of these from the saddle-horse standpoint are determined to control them without thought of the interests of others, forgetting that such institutions are not saddle-horses upon whose back only one may ride. Fighting for a place in the saddle is no longer sensible, because civic organizations must be thought of in the terms of the automobile in which more than one are seated, all of whom should be considered by the man at the wheel.

That there is a tendency in human nature to seek to control is not to be denied. But there is no real reason why people seated together in an automobile cannot confer together and agree just where they wish to go to, at what speed they wish to travel, who is to ride on the front seat and who on the back seat, and who is to take the wheel.

There may be a need of some shifting about to arrange these for the comfort of all, but there is no reason why it should be made so unpleasant for any that they are compelled to refuse to ride. Neither the persons on the front seat, nor those on the back seat, should refuse to consider the wishes of the other group. The important thing is that all agree upon the destination, seat themselves as comfortably as possible, and put a man at the wheel who has the confidence of all the passengers in the car.

Using a coffin for a treasure vault is a new idea and not a bad one at that. No one expects that the dead will carry treasures along with them.

CONGRESSMAN KELLER tried to make it warm for Attorney General Daugherty and is himself called over the coals.

HERBERT HOOVER prefers to stay in his present department. He has concluded that reorganizing one department is a big enough task during one administration.

CHICAGO has had another periodical clean-up. Chicago is either one thing or the other; it knows no half way measures.

ST. JOHN'S U. DEFEATS LITTLE FALLS OUTFIT

Collegeville, Jan. 9.—The St. John's University basketball team made its debut Saturday afternoon, defeating the Little Falls high school aggregation in a practice game 29 to 4. The visitors showed class early in the game but weakened at the battle progressed with St. John's forging far into the lead before the end of the half.

Five minutes had been spent in hard playing by both teams before either scored. Then the Collegeville lads started to show an advantage. They made a number of hard shots and slipped up on a few that seemed easy. In the first half Little Falls scored only a single field basket. That came from Crose.

In the second half St. John's added nine field baskets while the visitors could not duplicate their scoring of the first half, Nyman making a field throw.

Next Saturday St. John's plays at St. Olaf, the first conference game of the season.

WARNING TO THE PUBLIC IS ISSUED

"Don't Neglect a Cold—Take Instant Steps To Check and Cure It"

New Home Treatment Discovered

Because the common cold is your deadliest enemy and because by its elimination many lives can be saved each year, a movement is now on foot to persuade every family to provide itself with a suitable remedy. Simultaneously comes the announcement by the Mucosolvent laboratory of the discovery of a very pleasant elixir, or salve, for home use. This salve, applied in the nostrils, is said to break up a cold at once.

Physicians' records will show that every year there are needless cases of pneumonia resulting from the neglect of a cold. By the use of this new preparation a great deal of suffering and grief may be avoided. If you have a cold or any member of your family has a cold, go immediately to the nearest druggist and ask for Mucosolvent Salve. It comes in small glass jars and costs only a quarter.

Simple Home Remedy

There is nothing complicated in its use, neither does it interfere with any medicine you may be taking.

The cold being in its first stages, all that is necessary is to apply Mucosolvent Salve in each nostril with the finger, then sniff it hard; the nose and head will open immediately and great relief will follow.

Mucosolvent is very pleasant, soothing and healing, containing as it does oils of turpentine, eucalyptus, menthol crystals, etc., in a base of refined petroleum jelly. It is not greasy nor will it stain the clothing.

If the cold has reached the secondary stage, but has not reached the chest, it is still easily handled. Melt a small quantity in a spoon or tin cup and inhale the vapors that arise. These vapors are very powerful (though pleasant) and will clear the head almost instantly. Repeat three times at fifteen minute intervals, meanwhile applying salve in each nostril and rubbing on throat and upper lip.

Children's Colds

Children's colds are decidedly more dangerous than those of adults and until Mucosolvent Salve was discovered probably more difficult to treat because the child's stomach so often rebels against strong medicines. But Mucosolvent Salve is applied externally and the treatment is

DR. L. W. GIFFIN,

Neenah, Wis.

Every community has at least one physician whose unselfish interest in the matters of public health should be given recognition. Dr. Giffin specialized in cases of sore throat, croup and diphtheria. He labored incessantly during the epidemic of 1893 and saved many lives. He discovered a means of loosening the phlegm or mucus which gathers in cases of cold, croup and dangerous diseases.

Used Same Prescription For Many Years

Dr. Giffin standardized his prescription and used it in his practice for years. ## DON'T BLOCK PROSPERITY

MINNESOTA'S progress is threatened. Opposition to the Babcock good roads program has arisen because of the belief that it will increase taxes.

The proposal to issue $20,000,000 for paving projects does not mean that taxes would be increased one penny. The plan is to issue the bonds and carry out immediately the paving work that ordinarily would be done in 10 or 20 years.

The cost would be taken up during the period of 10 or 20 years. In other words, Minnesota would get the good roads at once, but pay for them later.

Payment of the bonds would not be by general taxation. Principal and interest would be met out of the automobile taxes collected by the state.

Nor does the plan contemplate increasing the cost of automobile licenses. It doesn't contemplate placing a single additional burden on the public. As we see it, everything is to be gained, nothing lost.

Good roads are a necessity. They must be built if the farmer is to prosper. They are equally important to the city.

Many of our graveled trunk highways today carry so much traffic that it would be cheaper to hard surface them than to pay the present upkeep.

Mr. Babcock proposes an issue of bonds amounting to $10,000,000 in 1923 and a similar amount in 1924 to be used in construction of permanent hard surfaced highways. It is proposed to set aside a certain amount out of the fees collected from motor vehicle taxes to promote a sinking fund and to pay the interest on those bonds. The balance, which represents the greater amount of the motor vehicle tax would be used as before for maintenance of unpaved highways.

Authorization of the bond issue would mean the saving to motor vehicle users of thousands of dollars by decreasing upkeep expense on their cars.

But more important, it would mean the growth and prosperity of the state of Minnesota. It would mean keeping pace with our sister states. It would mean rendering the greatest aid possible to the farmer by providing adequate highways over which he can transport his products to the market—and this with no increase in taxes to him.

Paving work can now be done at pre-war prices. Contractors are available now under the most favorable economic conditions. This is not the time to be penny wise and pound foolish.

The Daily News has never been accused of urging unwise expenditure of public funds or of sponsoring extravagance. We sincerely believe that the Babcock good roads program will lead to a period of prosperity for farmer and city dweller alike.

This paper believes that any attempt to obstruct the program will be due to a misunderstanding of Mr. Babcock's plan.

Every citizen should familiarize himself with the details—The Daily News will be glad to get them for you if you will write us.

Don't let a misconception or misunderstanding block the way to Minnesota's greatest period of prosperity.—St. Paul Daily News.

THE ENGLISH THAT IS ENGLISH

WITH the growth of the English language, in two directions, it is becoming necessary to attempt to conserve the best that is in it. The first growth is in vocabulary and the second is geographical; and the second of these has a marked influence on the first. The result of this growth is seen in the vast addition to the language of words that are provincial, or the non-enduring slang words of any particular age.

A movement, headed by Fred Newton Scott, of the University of Michigan, has as its object the purifying of the English language and keeping it pure. It should have the assistance of those who, seeing the day when the English language will be universal, hope to make it a common medium of expression by which all men may understand the thoughts that others are seeking to express.

One of the reasons why an Englishman cannot understand the point of an American joke, or an American the humor of an English story, lies in the fact that both contain words that are appreciated by the one telling the story but are not understood by the one hearing it. Very many English words have an entirely different meaning in the United States from that which they carry in England.

There is yet another serious encroachment upon pure English, which is found in the increasing numbers of words which are nothing other than provincialisms. These may be heard in every section of England and in different parts of the United States. As these become assimilated into the language, they tend to destroy a language which ought to be the medium for carrying across thoughts from the speaker to the listener. But thoughts cannot be conveyed by a language, even though it be called by the common name English, whose terms are not understood by those living outside of the boundaries in which the provincialisms have been made a part of the language. Some of these may well be kept because of their value in expressing thought, but to serve any considerable purpose they must be explained to those who do not know their meaning.

The language in which an American writer describes a baseball game carries no meaning to one who has not been taught the meaning of the words used, and what is true of these terms is true of many words that have been called into use in various parts of the world where the English language is spoken.

The object of such forward-looking men is to secure one language, not in name only but in fact, and it is highly commendable.

SENATOR NELSON SHOWS HIS HAND

THE senior senator from Minnesota is given to expressing himself in vigorous language and he lived up to his reputation in his recent speech on the motion to withdraw American troops from the Rhine.

Characterizing the politics of those who made the demand as "peanut politics," Senator Nelson told the senate a few things in a very straight-forward way. Perhaps the most startling announcement made in the speech was the one in which he affirmed that he has always favored America's entry into the League of Nations, with certain reservations. This is interesting to the people back home for more than one good republican in this state has been abused because he has dared to champion just such a position as that taken by the senior senator from Minnesota.

It is unfortunate that partisan politics should enter into questions of such moment as those of our relations to Europe. Such problems cannot be successfully faced in the arena of politics but must be dispassionately and thoroughly considered by the department of state which has before it the necessary data upon which to form an opinion leading to a decision. If, as Senator Nelson affirms, much of the present trouble in Europe is the result of our refusal to accept the peace treaty of Versailles, and to enter the League of Nations, after demanding such necessary reservations as seemed wise, then Europe's troubled condition is the result of American politics, for the League of Nations was made a political issue.

If this is true, and no one is much better qualified to announce its truth than Senator Nelson, it will be most unfortunate if politics, entering once more into our relations to Europe, prevents the administration from doing what the exigencies of the situation demand.

When there is such confusion in congress over the ship subsidy bill there is little reason to expect that congressmen will be able to deal with the larger affairs of America's foreign relations with less confusion. Politics and business do not mix any too well and politics and wisdom are seldom wedded. One of the weaknesses of democratic government lies in the desire of lawmakers to express a snap judgment on questions that they cannot decide intelligently, being without the necessary training and data.

SADDLE-HORSES AND AUTOMOBILES

WE have gone beyond the day of the saddle-horse and the day of the automobile has arrived. When the saddle-horse was used for traveling, the one in the saddle controlled the horse and, being alone in the saddle, had no one else to think about but himself. With the automobile it is different. These vehicles seat more than one and the courteous, thoughtful driver, considers not only his own desires but the wishes of those who may be with him in the car.

What has already been said illustrates the attitudes that may be taken to community affairs. Such as think of these from the saddle-horse standpoint are determined to control them without thought of the interests of others, forgetting that such institutions are not saddle-horses upon whose back only one may ride. Fighting for a place in the saddle is no longer sensible, because civic organizations must be thought of in the terms of the automobile in which more than one are seated, all of whom should be considered by the man at the wheel.

That there is a tendency in human nature to seek to control is not to be denied. But there is no real reason why people seated together in an automobile cannot confer together and agree just where they wish to go to, at what speed they wish to travel, who is to ride on the front seat and who on the back seat, and who is to take the wheel.

There may be a need of some shifting about to arrange these for the comfort of all, but there is no reason why it should be made so unpleasant for any that they are compelled to refuse to ride. Neither the persons on the front seat, nor those on the back seat, should refuse to consider the wishes of the other group. The important thing is that all agree upon the destination, seat themselves as comfortably as possible, and put a man at the wheel who has the confidence of all the passengers in the car.

USING a coffin for a treasure vault is a new idea and not a bad one at that. No one expects that the dead will carry treasures along with them.

CONGRESSMAN KELLER tried to make it warm for Attorney General Daugherty and is himself called over the coals.

HERBERT HOOVER prefers to stay in his present department. He has concluded that reorganizing one department is a big enough task during one administration.

CHICAGO has had another periodical clean-up. Chicago is either one thing or the other; it knows no half way measures.

ST. JOHN'S U. DEFEATS LITTLE FALLS OUTFIT

Collegeville, Jan. 9.—The St. John's University basketball team made its debut Saturday afternoon, defeating the Little Falls high school aggregation in a practice game 29 to 4. The visitors showed class early in the game but weakened at the battle progressed with St. John's forging far into the lead before the end of the half.

Five minutes had been spent in hard playing by both teams before either scored. Then the Collegeville lads started to show an advantage. They made a number of hard shots and slipped up on a few that seemed easy. In the first half Little Falls scored only a single field basket. That came from Crose.

In the second half St. John's added nine field baskets while the visitors could not duplicate their scoring of the first half, Nyman making a field throw.

Next Saturday St. John's plays at St. Olaf, the first conference game of the season.

NEVER USE DRUGS

Drugs are liable to have an injurious effect upon the nerves or heart. A pure healthful laxative herb tonic like Bulgarian Herb Tea is very effective and positively harmless—just take it steaming hot with lemon juice at bedtime. It helps break up a cold quickly.

MEDICAL AUTHORITIES PRONOUNCE COMMON COLD DEADLIEST ENEMY

Forerunner of Dangerous Diseases

Such as Grippe, Influenza, Pneumonia

WARNING TO THE PUBLIC IS ISSUED

"Don't Neglect a Cold—Take Instant Steps To Check and Cure It"

New Home Treatment Discovered

Because the common cold is your deadliest enemy and because by its elimination many lives can be saved each year, a movement is now on foot to persuade every family to provide itself with a suitable remedy. Simultaneously comes the announcement by the Muco-Solvent Laboratory of the discovery of a very pleasant ointment, or salve, for home use. This salve, applied in the nostrils, is said to break up a cold at once.

Physicians' records will show that every year there are needless cases of pneumonia resulting from the neglect of a cold. By the use of this new preparation a great deal of suffering and grief may be avoided. If you have a cold or any member of your family has a cold, go immediately to the nearest druggist and ask for Muco-Solvent Salve. It comes in small glass jars and costs only a quarter.

Simple Home Remedy

There is nothing complicated in its use, neither does it interfere with any medicine you may be taking.

The cold being in its first stages, all that is necessary is to apply Muco-Solvent Salve in each nostril with the finger, then sniff it hard—the nose and head will open immediately and great relief will follow.

Muco-Solvent is very pleasant, soothing and healing, containing as it does oils of turpentine, eucalyptus, menthol crystals, etc., in a base of refined petroleum jelly. It is not greasy nor will it stain the clothing.

If the cold has reached the secondary stage, but has not reached the chest, it is still easily handled. Melt a small quantity in a spoon or tin cup and inhale the vapors that arise. These vapors are very powerful (though pleasant) and will clear the head almost instantly. Repeat three times at fifteen minute intervals, meanwhile applying salve in each nostril and rubbing on throat and upper lip.

Children's Colds

Children's colds are decidedly more dangerous than those of adults and until Muco-Solvent Salve was discovered probably more difficult to treat because the child's stomach so often rebels against strong medicines. But Muco-Solvent Salve is applied externally and the treatment is so pleasant that the child immediately feels better.

Apply the salve in each nostril, rub on throat and chest then cover the chest with white or red flannel which has been warmed. If this does not show instant results, melt Muco-Solvent Salve in a spoon and let it be inhaled until the nasal passages are opened, then keep them open by applying more salve up each nostril. Keep bowels open with castor oil or any light laxative.

Under ordinary conditions children's colds respond at once to this treatment and disappear in a few hours. Great care should be exercised to avoid drafts and wet feet in winter, and when out at play the child's chest should be well protected. Muco-Solvent Salve should be used freely upon the first indications and the coming cold immediately thwarted. Children soon learn to use this new salve themselves and for that reason a jar of it should always be kept in the house, especially as it is to be had of any druggist and costs only 25 cents.

For Deep Seated Chest Colds

Quick Relief Secured By Use of Muco-Solvent Salve and Muco-Solvent Liquid

Deep seated colds in head and chest must be treated at once. A good laxative must be given and the patient should go to bed. Apply Muco-Solvent Salve to nostrils and rub thickly on chest, afterward covering with warm flannel. Arrange bed covers in such a manner that patient will breathe the vapors from the salve. Procure a bottle of Muco-Solvent Liquid and administer proper dose according to directions at two or three

"Ladies Must Live" at Lyceum
The last production of the late George Loane Tucker, creator of "The Miracle Man," written by Alice Duer Miller, "Ladies Must Live," was shown with great success at the Lyceum theatre yesterday and is showing again tonight. "Ladies Must Live" is a picture story with a vital, appealing theme, and in its development, many highly dramatic scenes are presented which fascinate the spectator.

The homes of wealth from boudoir to kitchen, with their varied human types are shown with that careful attention to detail which placed George Loane Tucker's name as producer on an enduring pedestal of fame. The story is deeply appealing and in its presentation, an augmented cast of capable players worked to excellent advantage. Betty Compson, now a Paramount star, had the leading feminine role and she played opposite Robert Ellis, the leading man. The production is a delightful one and the cast generally is of the finest grade.

"Poverty of Riches"

"Poverty of Riches," by Leroy Scott, a Goldwyn picture coming to the Lyceum theatre, for 2 days, beginning Wednesday, is a simple story exposing and contrasting the lives of two families, life-long friends in their happiness. The one seeks it through a happy home life, children, modest pleasures and perfect understanding between husband and wife. The other family chooses the path of financial power, refuse to have children though both young people are fond of them.

How these two families meet the tests life puts them to is a sermon in pictures on the joys of the simple, natural manner of living.

The picture has been admirably acted; and the director was Reginald Barker. In the cast are such sterling players as Leatrice Joy, Louise Love-ly, Irene Rich, Richard Dix, John Eowers, Dave Winter, John Cossar, and a host of adorable children.

Birds Make Work for Plumbers.

A plumber working on a stopped-up pipe to the kitchen sink at the residence of J. R. Dicks, Plant City, Fla., discovered that the pipe had been clogged by pecan nuts dropped in the top of a vent pipe by birds. The birds gathered the nuts from a nearby pecan tree and thought they were storing them in the hole, while the nuts dropped down to the bottom of the pipe and clogged the drain from the kitchen sink, causing it to overflow. A quart of nuts was removed from the pipe.

Electrifying War Vessels.

The electrification of warships is now regarded as carrying with it unquestioned advance in efficiency. This new mode of naval propulsion is less than ten years old, for it was in 1913 that the collier Jupiter, the first American warship to be electrified, was commissioned. The Jupiter is now the Langley, an airplane carrier. The New Mexico was the first capital ship of any nation to be equipped for the electric drive. She was commissioned in the spring of 1918. Her electrical apparatus was furnished by the General Electric company, which has since electrified the California and the Maryland, the latter acclaimed as the queen ship of the navy. At present two airplane carriers are under construction, and these also are to be electrified.

Conceited Deity.

The young minister went walking with his small daughter one afternoon. As he turned toward a gypsy encampment his small daughter resolutely refused to go that way. "Why don't you come?" asked her father. "I don't like the black women. I'm afraid of them," she declared as a swarthy faced woman appeared. "But," insisted the young minister as he took his daughter's hand and walked along, "you mustn't say things like that. God loves the black woman just as much as He loves you." Small daughter was silent as, grasping her father's hand tightly, she passed the gypsies. Then she stopped and said: "Well, daddy if God loves the black woman it must be just 'cause He made them Himself."

Fog Fans in London Hotels.

With the coming of the first of the winter fogs in London, which often make it impossible to see across the street, the problem of how to minimize this necessary, or unavoidable, evil in the great public rooms of hotels has exercised the ingenuity of the managers. Each hotel now deals with the problem in its own way, and with varying success.

The Savoy hotel now claims to have the finest and swiftest system in the world for dispelling the fog. One hundred and fifty forced-draught, high-speed fans have been installed to be used during the winter to pump out any quantity of fog creeping in.

They Overlooked the Diamonds

THERE is a modern flippancy to the effect that, "What you don't know won't hurt you." It is also a fallacy. For instance:

The farmers of Kimberley were a disgusted, disheartened lot. They said the soil was too rocky to earn them a living. Some of them left. Others died in poverty.

And all the time their children were playing with diamonds.

But the farmers didn't know. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles.

Don't be like those Kimberley farmers. Know!

Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the diamonds that are daily within your grasp. Know!

AMUSEMENTS

"Ladies Must Live" at Lyceum

The last production of the late George Loane Tucker, creator of "The Miracle Man," written by Alice Duer Miller, "Ladies Must Live," was shown with great success at the Lyceum theatre yesterday and is showing again tonight. "Ladies Must Live" is a picture story with a vital, appealing theme, and in its development, many highly dramatic scenes are presented which fascinate the spectator.

The homes of wealth from boudoir to kitchen, with their varied human types are shown with that careful attention to detail which placed George Loane Tucker's name as producer on an enduring pedestal of fame. The story is deeply appealing and in its presentation, an augmented cast of capable players worked to excellent advantage. Betty Compson, now a Paramount star, had the leading feminine role and she played opposite Robert Ellis, the leading man. The production is a delightful one and the cast generally is of the finest grade.

"Poverty of Riches"

"Poverty of Riches," by Leroy Scott, a Goldwyn picture coming to the Lyceum theatre, for 2 days, beginning Wednesday, is a simple story exposing and contrasting the lives of two families, life-long friends in their happiness. The one seeks it through a happy home life, children, modest pleasures and perfect understanding between husband and wife. The other family chooses the path of financial power, refuse to have children though both young people are fond of them.

How these two families meet the tests life puts them to is a sermon in pictures on the joys of the simple, natural manner of living.

The picture has been admirably acted; and the director was Reginald Barker. In the cast are such sterling players as Leatrice Joy, Louise Love-ly, Irene Rich, Richard Dix, John Lowers, Dave Winter, John Cossart, and a host of adorable children.

Birds Make Work for Plumbers.

A plumber working on a stopped-up pipe to the kitchen sink at the residence of J. R. Dicks, Plant City, Fla., discovered that the pipe had been clogged by pecan nuts dropped in the top of a vent pipe by birds. The birds gathered the nuts from a nearby pecan tree and thought they were storing them in the hole, while the nuts dropped down to the bottom of the pipe and clogged the drain from the kitchen sink, causing it to overflow. A quart of nuts was removed from the pipe.

Beauty is But Skin Deep And Good Blood is Beneath Both

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I want to make this public expression of what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me. Some years ago I was in a weak, run-down condition with neither strength nor ambition. A neighbor suggested that I take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I secured a bottle from the drug store and this was so helpful that I had no need of a second bottle. To those whose condition needs building up I can and do recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."—Mrs. Addie Hottell, 711 Buchanan St., N. E.

Gain health and vitality by obtaining Dr. Pierce's Discovery at your drug store, in tablets or liquid.

Electrifying War Vessels.

The electrification of warships is now regarded as carrying with it unquestioned advance in efficiency. This new mode of naval propulsion is less than ten years old, for it was in 1913 that the collier Jupiter, the first American warship to be electrified, was commissioned. The Jupiter is now the Langley, an airplane carrier. The New Mexico was the first capital ship of any nation to be equipped for the electric drive. She was commissioned in the spring of 1918. Her electrical apparatus was furnished by the General Electric company, which has since electrified the California and the Maryland, the latter acclaimed as the queen ship of the navy. At present two airplane carriers are under construction, and these also are to be electrified.

Conceited Deity.

The young minister went walking with his small daughter one afternoon. As he turned toward a gypsy encampment his small daughter resolutely refused to go that way. "Why don't you come?" asked her father. "I don't like the black women. I'm afraid of them," she declared as a swarthy faced woman appeared. "But," insisted the young minister as he took his daughter's hand and walked along, "you mustn't say things like that. God loves the black woman just as much as He loves you." Small daughter was silent as, grasping her father's hand tightly, she passed the gypsies. Then she stopped and said: "Well, daddy if God loves the black woman it must be just 'cause He made them Himself."

Fog Fans in London Hotels.

With the coming of the first of the winter fogs in London, which often make it impossible to see across the street, the problem of how to minimize this necessary, or unavoidable, evil in the great public rooms of hotels has exercised the ingenuity of the managers. Each hotel now deals with the problem in its own way, and with varying success.

The Savoy hotel now claims to have the finest and swiftest system in the world for dispelling the fog. One hundred and fifty forced-draught, high-speed fans have been installed to be used during the winter to pump out any quantity of fog creeping in.

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY SKIN

Irritation and Breaking Out Often Healed Over Night, Says Skin Specialist

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.—Advt.

They Overlooked the Diamonds

THERE is a modern flippancy to the effect that, "What you don't know won't hurt you." It is also a fallacy. For instance:

The farmers of Kimberley were a disgusted, disheartened lot. They said the soil was too rocky to earn them a living. Some of them left. Others died in poverty.

And all the time their children were playing with diamonds.

But the farmers didn't know. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles.

Don't be like those Kimberley farmers. Know!

Don't seek opportunity in some distant place and overlook the diamonds that are daily within your grasp. Know!

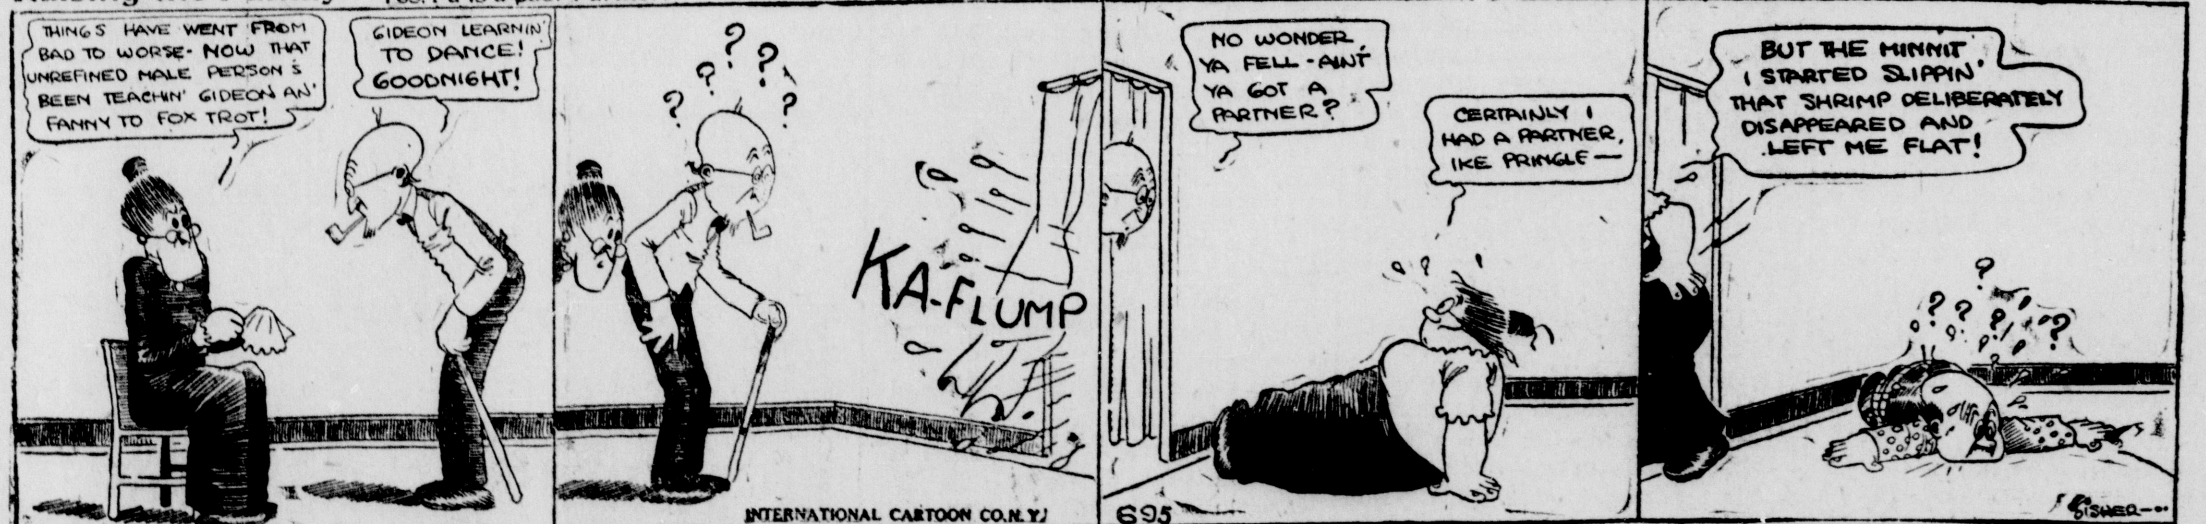

Advertising is a mine of opportunity. It tells of values you wouldn't know about if it were not there to guide you.

The secret of economical buying is information. The man or woman who is best informed is the one who buys to best advantage.
